

Alabama

FOOD FESTIVAL

THE YEAR of ALABAMA
· FOOD ·

Celebrate with us the Year of ALABAMA Food!

WHEN:
Saturday, July 16, 2005

WHERE:
Pepper Place Saturday Market
2nd Ave. South @ 29th St.
Birmingham
pepperplacemarket.com

WHAT TIME:
7 a.m. – 2 p.m.
(FREE)

WHAT'S HAPPENING:
The Pepper Place Saturday Market
Official Dish of the Year of Alabama Food Contest
Best-tasting Tomato Contest
The Heaviest Tomato Contest
Cooking demos with Alabama's best chefs
Live music
Chef book signing

Alabama
SHARE THE WONDER.

RENAISSANCE.
ROSS BRIDGE
GOLF RESORT & SPA

For additional information log on to
800ALABAMA.com or call 800-ALABAMA

Pots, Paintings, and Jewelry

Visit this studio for superb Kentucky arts and crafts.

Henrietta Scott loves having her own gallery in the small town of Columbia, Kentucky. Appreciative of a city that boasts several artists, she revels in showcasing their works in a charming restored 1928 store. Make time to stop by Highland Raku Studio, where this one-time art teacher has plenty to show and tell.

Family Affair

Aside from being an art teacher, Henrietta has been a potter for 15 years, and husband Jeff gets into the act with his lathe-turned wooden lids for her raku pots. Their daughter features her photography in the gallery, and Henrietta's mother has her stunning watercolors on display. It's a three-generational, family-fueled effort.

"I got my husband interested in pottery," says Henrietta. "I do all the glazing and the decorative work. Then we raku them together." Henrietta and Jeff's pots range from $40 to $150. "I do small bowls and vases that are decorative," says Henrietta. "Large bowls run $60."

Local Artists Shine

The gallery also shows and sells the works of some 20 other juried artists, mostly from south-central Kentucky. "One lady does great collages," explains Henrietta. "She's originally from England and raises

Works by about 20 different artists are shown at Highland Raku Studio, including Joan Gulotta's exquisite necklaces and brooches.

Raku vessels, made by gallery owner Henrietta Scott and her husband, Jeff, feature lathe-turned wooden lids and handles.

sheep, so they play a large part in her designs." Quilts, jewelry, and handblown glass are also popular.

Passing Along the Dream

"It's been my dream to encourage students to make it if they love art," muses Henrietta. "I like to put my money where my mouth is. I wanted to prove you can go for it."

To that end, Henrietta also teaches classes at the studio—to both adults and children. And in the fall, when their 250 apple trees begin to burst forth, she and Jeff plan to sell succulent fruit from their renovated general store. It'll probably be as pretty as a picture.

Highland Raku Studio: 7917 Burkesville Road, Columbia, KY 42728; (270) 378-6421 or www.highlandraku.com. Hours: 10 a.m.-5 p.m. Thursday-Saturday. Directions: From I-65, take Cumberland Parkway (toll road) to Exit 49. Go north on State 55 to the town square; go south on State 61 for 7 miles. ♦